Preface

The problem is all too familiar: students just don't know enough words. Reading, writing, and content teachers agree that many students' vocabularies are inadequate for the demands of courses. Weak vocabularies limit students' understanding of what they read and the clarity and depth of what they write.

The purpose of Advancing Vocabulary Skills and the other books in the Townsend Press vocabulary series is to provide a solid, workable answer to the vocabulary problem. In the course of 30 chapters, Advancing Vocabulary Skills teaches 260 important words and 40 common word parts. Here are the book's distinctive features:

- 1 An intensive words-in-context approach. Studies show that students learn words best by reading them repeatedly in different contexts, not through rote memorization. The book gives students an intensive in-context experience by presenting each word in six different contexts. Each chapter takes students through a productive sequence of steps:
 - Students infer the meaning of each word by considering two sentences in which it appears and then choosing from multiple-choice options.
 - On the basis of their inferences, students identify each word's meaning in a matching test. They are then in a solid position to deepen their knowledge of a word.
 - Finally, they strengthen their understanding of a word by applying it three times: in two sentence practices and in a selection practice.

Each encounter with a word brings it closer to becoming part of the student's permanent word bank.

- 2 Abundant practice. Along with extensive practice in each chapter, there are a crossword puzzle and a set of unit tests at the end of every six-chapter unit. The puzzle and tests reinforce students' knowledge of the words in each chapter. In addition, most chapters reuse several words from earlier chapters (such repeated words are marked with small circles), allowing for more reinforcement. Last, there are supplementary tests in the Test Bank and the computer software that accompany the book. All this practice means that students learn in the surest possible way: by working closely and repeatedly with each word.
- 3 Controlled feedback. The opening activity in each chapter gives students three multiple-choice options to help them decide on the meaning of a given word. The multiple-choice options also help students to complete the matching test that is the second activity of each chapter. A limited answer key at the back of the book then provides answers for the third activity in the chapter. All these features enable students to take an active role in their own learning.

4 Focus on essential words. A good deal of time and research went into selecting the 260 words and 40 word parts featured in the book. Word frequency lists were consulted, along with lists in a wide range of vocabulary books. In addition, the authors and editors each prepared their own lists. A computer was used to help in the consolidation of the many word lists. A long process of group discussion then led to final decisions about the words and word parts that would be most helpful for students on a basic reading level.

5 Appealing content. Dull practice materials work against learning. On the other hand, meaningful, lively, and at times even funny sentences and selections can spark students' attention and thus enhance their grasp of the material. For this reason, a great deal of effort was put into creating sentences and selections with both widespread appeal and solid context support. We have tried throughout to make the practice materials truly enjoyable for teachers and students alike. Look, for example, at the selection on page 27 that closes the fifth chapter of this book.

6 Clear format. The book has been designed so that its very format contributes to the learning process. Each chapter consists of two two-page spreads. In the first two-page spread (the first such spread is on pages 8–9), students can easily refer to all ten words in context while working on the matching test, which provides a clear meaning for each word. In the second two-page spread, students can refer to a box that shows all ten words while they work through the fill-in activities on these pages.

7 Supplementary materials.

a A convenient Instructor's Edition is available at no charge to instructors using the book. It is identical to the student book except that it contains answers to all of the activities and tests.

b A combined Instructor's Manual and Test Bank is also offered at no charge to instructors who have adopted the book. This booklet contains a general vocabulary placement test as well as a pretest and a posttest for the book and for each of the five units in the text. It also includes teaching guidelines, suggested syllabi, an answer key, and an additional mastery test for each chapter as well as an additional mastery test for each unit.

c Interactive computer software also accompanies the book. Free to adopters of 20 or more copies, this software—in both Windows and Macintosh format—provides two additional tests for each vocabulary chapter in the book. The tests include a number of user- and instructor-friendly features: brief explanations of answers (thus the software teaches as well as tests), a sound option, mouse support, icons, color, dialog balloons, frequent mention of the user's first name, a running score at the bottom of the screen, a record-keeping file, and actual, audible pronunciations of each word. Students can access their scores at any time; instructors can access student scores by selecting Administrator mode and entering the appropriate password.

Probably in no other area of reading instruction is the computer more useful than in reinforcing vocabulary. The Townsend Press vocabulary software takes full advantage of the computer's unique capabilities and motivational appeal. Here's how the program works:

- Students are tested on the ten words in a chapter, with each word in a sentence context different from any in the book itself.
- After students answer each question, they receive immediate feedback: The computer indicates if a student is right or wrong and why, frequently using the student's first name and providing a running score.
- When the test is over, the computer supplies a test score and—this especially is what is unique about this program—a chance to take the test a second time. Students then receive a separate score for the retest. The value of this approach is that the computer gives students immediate added practice in words they need to review.
- In addition, the computer offers a second, more challenging "Definitions" test in which students must identify the meanings of the chapter words without benefit of context. This test is a final check that students have really learned the words. And, again, there is the option of a retest.

By the end of this program, students' knowledge of each word in the chapter will have been carefully reinforced. And this reinforcement will be the more effective for having occurred in an electronic medium that especially engages today's students.

To obtain a copy of any of the above materials, instructors who have adopted the book may write to the Reading Editor, Townsend Press, 1038 Industrial Drive, West Berlin, NJ 08091. Alternatively, instructors may call our toll-free number: 1-800-772-6410; send a fax toll-free to 1-800-225-8894, or e-mail our Customer Service department at <townsendcs@aol.com>.

- 8 Realistic pricing. As with the previous editions, the goal has been to offer the highest possible quality at the best possible price. While Advancing Vocabulary Skills is comprehensive enough to serve as a primary text, its modest price also makes it an inexpensive supplement.
- 9 One in a sequence of books. The most fundamental book in the Townsend Press vocabulary series is Vocabulary Basics. It is followed by Groundwork for a Better Vocabulary (a slightly more advanced basic text) and then by the three main books in the series: Building Vocabulary Skills (also a basic text), Improving Vocabulary Skills (an intermediate text), and Advancing Vocabulary Skills (a more advanced text). The most advanced book in the Townsend Press vocabulary series is Advanced Word Power. There are also short versions of the Building, Improving, and Advancing books. Suggested grade levels for the books are included in the Instructor's Manual. Together, the books can help create a vocabulary foundation that will make any student a better reader, writer, and thinker.

NOTES ON THE THIRD EDITION

A number of changes have been made in the third edition of Advancing Vocabulary Skills:

- Material on how to solve word analogies has been added to the introduction, and a new unit test consisting of twenty word analogies has been prepared for each unit in the book. These tests provide practice in a format widely used in standardized tests.
- The remaining unit tests have been extensively revised, and a new multiple-choice section, using the words in realistic situations, has been added to Test 1 throughout.
- A new section, "Topics for Discussion and Writing," provides six high-interest items for each of the vocabulary chapters. Each item uses one or more of the vocabulary words in the chapter in a brief scenario suitable for class or small-group discussion, writing, or both.
- Finally, a number of practice items throughout the book have been revised or updated to ensure that each item works as clearly and effectively with students as possible.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We are grateful for the enthusiastic comments provided by users of the Townsend Press vocabulary books over the life of the first and second editions. We appreciate as well the additional material provided by Beth Johnson, Susan Gamer, and Eleanor Tauber; the editing work of Eliza Comodromos; the proofreading work of Barbara Solot; and, especially, the organizational, design, and editing skills of the indefatigable Janet M. Goldstein.

Introduction

WHY VOCABULARY DEVELOPMENT COUNTS

You have probably often heard it said, "Building vocabulary is important." Maybe you've politely nodded in agreement and then forgotten the matter. But it would be fair for you to ask, "Why is vocabulary development important? Provide some evidence." Here are four compelling kinds of evidence.

- 1 Common sense tells you what many research studies have shown as well: vocabulary is a basic part of reading comprehension. Simply put, if you don't know enough words, you are going to have trouble understanding what you read. An occasional word may not stop you, but if there are too many words you don't know, comprehension will suffer. The content of textbooks is often challenge enough; you don't want to work as well on understanding the words that express that content.
- 2 Vocabulary is a major part of almost every standardized test, including reading achievement tests, college entrance exams, and armed forces and vocational placement tests. Test developers know that vocabulary is a key measure of both one's learning and one's ability to learn. It is for this reason that they include a separate vocabulary section as well as a reading comprehension section. The more words you know, then, the better you are likely to do on such important tests.
- 3 Studies have indicated that students with strong vocabularies are more successful in school. And one widely known study found that a good vocabulary, more than any other factor, was common to people enjoying successful careers in life. Words are in fact the tools not just of better reading, but of better writing, speaking, listening, and thinking as well. The more words you have at your command, the more effective your communication can be, and the more influence you can have on the people around you.
- 4 In today's world, a good vocabulary counts more than ever. Far fewer people work on farms or in factories. Far more are in jobs that provide services or process information. More than ever, words are the tools of our trade: words we use in reading, writing, listening, and speaking. Furthermore, experts say that workers of tomorrow will be called on to change jobs and learn new skills at an ever-increasing pace. The keys to survival and success will be the abilities to communicate skillfully and learn quickly. A solid vocabulary is essential for both of these skills.

Clearly, the evidence is overwhelming that building vocabulary is crucial. The question then becomes, "What is the best way of going about it?"

WORDS IN CONTEXT: THE KEY TO VOCABULARY DEVELOPMENT

Memorizing lists of words is a traditional method of vocabulary development. However, a person is likely to forget such memorized lists quickly. Studies show that to master a word (or a word part), you must see and use it in various contexts. By working actively and repeatedly with a word, you greatly increase the chance of really learning it.

The following activity will make clear how this book is organized and how it uses a words-in-context approach. Answer the questions or fill in the missing words in the spaces provided.

Inside Front Cover and Contents

Turn to the inside front cover.

- The inside front cover provides a _____ that will help you pronounce all the vocabulary words in the book.

Now turn to the table of contents on pages v–vi.

- How many chapters are in the book? _____
- Most chapters present vocabulary words. How many chapters present word parts? _____
- Four sections follow the last chapter. The first of these sections provides a limited answer key, the second gives helpful information on using _____, the third contains _____ and the fourth is an index of the 260 words and 40 word parts in the book.

Vocabulary Chapters

Turn to Chapter 1 on pages 8–11. This chapter, like all the others, consists of five parts:

- The first part of the chapter, on pages 8–9, is titled _____.

The left-hand column lists the ten words. Under each boldfaced word is its _____ (in parentheses). For example, the pronunciation of detriment is _____. For a guide to pronunciation, see the inside front cover as well as “Dictionary Use” on page 181.

Below the pronunciation guide for each word is its part of speech. The part of speech shown for detriment is _____. The vocabulary words in this book are mostly nouns, adjectives, and verbs. Nouns are words used to name something—a person, place, thing, or idea. Familiar nouns include boyfriend, city, hat, and truth. Adjectives are words that describe nouns, as in the following word pairs: former boyfriend, large city, red hat, whole truth. All of the verbs in this book express an action of some sort. They tell what someone or something is doing. Common verbs include sing, separate, support, and imagine.

To the right of each word are two sentences that will help you understand its meaning. In each sentence, the context—the words surrounding the boldfaced word—provides clues you can use to figure out the definition. There are four common types of context clues—examples, synonyms, antonyms, and the general sense of the sentence. Each is briefly described below.

1 Examples

A sentence may include examples that reveal what an unfamiliar word means. For instance, take a look at the following sentence from Chapter 1 for the word scrupulous:

The judge was scrupulous about never accepting a bribe or allowing a personal threat to influence his decisions.

The sentence provides two examples of what makes the judge scrupulous. The first is that he never accepted a bribe. The second is that the judge did not allow personal threats to influence his decisions. What do these two examples have in common? The answer to that question will tell you what scrupulous means. Look at the answer choices below, and in the answer space provided, write the letter of the one you feel is correct.

___ Scrupulous means a. ethical. b. economical. c. unjust.

Both of the examples given in the sentences about the judge tell us that he is honest, or ethical. So if you wrote a, you chose the correct answer.

2 Synonyms

Synonyms are words that mean the same or almost the same as another word. For example, the words joyful, happy, and delighted are synonyms—they all mean about the same thing. Synonyms serve as context clues by providing the meaning of an unknown word that is nearby. The sentence below from Chapter 2 provides a synonym clue for collaborate.

When Sarah and I were asked to collaborate on an article for the school newspaper, we found it difficult to work together.

Instead of using collaborate twice, the author used a synonym in the second part of the sentence. Find that synonym, and then choose the letter of the correct answer from the choices below.

___ Collaborate means a. to compete. b. to stop work. c. to team up.

The author uses two terms to express what Sarah and the speaker had to do: collaborate and work together. Therefore, collaborate must be another way of saying work together. (The author could have written, "Sarah and I were asked to work together.") Since work together can also mean team up, the correct answer is c.

3 Antonyms

Antonyms are words with opposite meanings. For example, help and harm are antonyms, as are work and rest. Antonyms serve as context clues by providing the opposite meaning of an unknown word. For instance, the sentence below from Chapter 1 provides an antonym clue for the word gregarious.

My gregarious brother loves parties, but my shy sister prefers to be alone.

The author is contrasting the brother's and sister's different personalities, so we can assume that gregarious and shy have opposite, or contrasting, meanings. Using that contrast as a clue, write the letter of the answer that you think best defines gregarious.

___ Gregarious means a. attractive. b. outgoing. c. humorous.

The correct answer is b. Because gregarious is the opposite of shy, it must mean "outgoing."

4 General Sense of the Sentence

Even when there is no example, synonym, or antonym clue in a sentence, you can still deduce the meaning of an unfamiliar word. For example, look at the sentence from Chapter 1 for the word detriment.

Smoking is a detriment to your health. It's estimated that each cigarette you smoke will shorten your life by one and a half minutes.

After studying the context carefully, you should be able to figure out the connection between smoking and health. That will be the meaning of detriment. Write the letter of your choice.

___ Detriment means a. an aid. b. a discovery. c. a disadvantage.

Since the sentence says that each cigarette will shorten the smoker's life by one and a half minutes, it is logical to conclude that smoking has a bad effect on health. Thus answer c is correct.

By looking closely at the pair of sentences provided for each word, as well as the answer choices, you should be able to decide on the meaning of a word. As you figure out each meaning, you are working actively with the word. You are creating the groundwork you need to understand and to remember the word. Getting involved with the word and developing a feel for it, based upon its use in context, is the key to word mastery.

It is with good reason, then, that the directions at the top of page 8 tell you to use the context to figure out each word's _____. Doing so deepens your sense of the word and prepares you for the next activity.

- The second part of the chapter, on page 9, is titled _____.

According to research, it is not enough to see a word in context. At a certain point, it is helpful as well to see the meaning of a word. The matching test provides that meaning, but it also makes you look for and think about that meaning. In other words, it continues the active learning that is your surest route to learning and remembering a word.

Note the caution that follows the test. Do not proceed any further until you are sure that you know the correct meaning of each word as used in context.

Keep in mind that a word may have more than one meaning. In fact, some words have quite a few meanings. (If you doubt it, try looking up in a dictionary, for example, the word make or draw.) In this book, you will focus on one common meaning for each vocabulary word. However, many of the words have additional meanings. For example, in Chapter 13, you will learn that inclusive means "including much or everything," as in the sentence "The newspaper's coverage of the trial was inclusive." If you then look up inclusive in the dictionary, you will discover that it has another meaning—"including the stated limits," as in "The weekend auto show takes place from Friday through Monday inclusive." After you learn one common meaning of a word, you will find yourself gradually learning its other meanings in the course of your school and personal reading.

- The third part of the chapter, on page 10, is titled _____.

Here are ten sentences that give you an opportunity to apply your understanding of the ten words. After inserting the words, check your answers in the limited key at the back of the book. Be sure to use the answer key as a learning tool only. Doing so will help you to master the words and to prepare for the last two activities and the unit tests, for which answers are not provided.

- The fourth and fifth parts of the chapter, on pages 10–11, are titled _____ and _____.

Each practice tests you on all ten words, giving you two more chances to deepen your mastery. In the fifth part, you have the context of an entire passage in which you can practice applying the words.

At the bottom of the last page of this chapter is a box where you can enter your score for the final two checks. These scores should also be entered into the vocabulary performance chart located on the inside back page of the book. To get your score, take 10% off for each item wrong. For example, 0 wrong = 100%, 1 wrong = 90%, 2 wrong = 80%, 3 wrong = 70%, 4 wrong = 60%, and so on.

Word Parts Chapters

Word parts are building blocks used in many English words. Learning word parts can help you to spell and pronounce words, unlock the meanings of unfamiliar words, and remember new words.

This book covers forty word parts—prefixes, suffixes, and roots. Prefixes are word parts that are put at the beginning of words. When written separately, a prefix is followed by a hyphen to show that something follows it. For example, the prefix extra is written like this: extra-. One common meaning of extra- is "beyond," as in the words extracurricular and extrasensory.

Suffixes are word parts that are added to the end of words. To show that something always comes before a suffix, a hyphen is placed at the beginning. For instance, the suffix cide is written like this: -cide. A common meaning of -cide is "killing," as in the words homicide and genocide.

Finally, roots are word parts that carry the basic meaning of a word. Roots cannot be used alone. To make a complete word, a root must be combined with at least one other word part. Roots are written without hyphens. One common root is dorm, which means "sleep," as in the words dormant and dormitory.

Each of the four chapters on word parts follows the same sequence as the chapters on vocabulary do. Keep the following guidelines in mind as well. To find the meaning of a word part, you should do two things.

- 1 First decide on the meaning of each boldfaced word in "Ten Word Parts in Context." If you don't know a meaning, use context clues to find it. For example, consider the two sentences and the answer options for the word part ante- or anti- in Chapter 6. Write the letter of your choice.

Before you enter Mel's living room, you pass through a small anteroom, where guests can leave their coats.

A clever saying warns us not to anticipate trouble before it happens: "Worrying casts tomorrow's clouds over today's sunshine."

___ The word part ante- or anti- means a. after. b. free. c. before.

You can conclude that if the anteroom is before the living room, anteroom means "room before." You can also determine that anticipate means "to think about beforehand."

- 2 Then decide on the meaning each pair of boldfaced words has in common. This will also be the meaning of the word part they share. In the case of the two sentences above, both words include the idea of something coming before something else. Thus ante- or anti- must mean _____.

You now know, in a nutshell, how to proceed with the words in each chapter. Make sure that you do each page very carefully. Remember that as you work through the activities, you are learning the words.

How many times in all will you use each word? If you look, you'll see that each chapter gives you the opportunity to work with each word six times. Each "impression" adds to the likelihood that the word will become part of your active vocabulary. You will have further opportunities to use the word in the crossword puzzle and unit tests that end each unit and on the computer disks that are available with the book.

In addition, many of the words are repeated in context in later chapters of the book. Such repeated words are marked with small circles. For example, which words from Chapter 1 are repeated in the Final Check on page 15 of Chapter 2?

Analogies

This book also offers practice in word analogies, yet another way to deepen your understanding of words. An analogy is a similarity between two things that are otherwise different. Doing an analogy question is a two-step process. First you have to figure out the relationship in a pair of words. Those words are written like this:

LEAF : TREE

What is the relationship between the two words above? The answer can be stated like this: A leaf is a part of a tree.

Next, you must look for a similar relationship in a second pair of words. Here is how a complete analogy question looks:

LEAF : TREE ::

- a. pond : river
c. page : book

- b. foot : shoe
d. beach : sky

And here is how the question can be read:

___ LEAF is to TREE as

- a. pond is to river.
- b. foot is to shoe.
- c. page is to book.
- d. beach is to sky.

To answer the question, you have to decide which of the four choices has a relationship similar to the first one. Check your answer by seeing if it fits in the same wording as you used to show the relationship between leaf and tree: A ___ is part of a ___. Which answer do you choose?

The correct answer is c. Just as a leaf is part of a tree, a page is part of a book. On the other hand, a pond is not part of a river, nor is a foot part of a shoe, nor is a beach part of the sky.

We can state the complete analogy this way: Leaf is to tree as page is to book.

Here's another analogy question to try. Begin by figuring out the relationship between the first two words.

___ COWARD : HERO ::

- a. soldier : military
- b. infant : baby
- c. actor : famous
- d. boss : worker

Coward and hero are opposite types of people. So you need to look at the other four pairs to see which has a similar relationship. When you think you have found the answer, check to see that the two words you chose can be compared in the same way as coward and hero: ___ and ___ are opposite types of people.

In this case, the correct answer is d; boss and worker are opposite kinds of people. (In other words, coward is to hero as boss is to worker.)

By now you can see that there are basically two steps to doing analogy items:

- 1) Find out the relationship of the first two words.
- 2) Find the answer that expresses the same type of relationship as the first two words have.

Now try one more analogy question on your own. Write the letter of the answer you choose in the space provided.

___ SWING : BAT ::

- a. drive : car
- b. run : broom
- c. catch : bat
- d. fly : butterfly

If you chose answer a, you were right. Swing is what we do with a bat, and drive is what we do with a car.

A FINAL THOUGHT

The facts are in. A strong vocabulary is a source of power. Words can make you a better reader, writer, speaker, thinker, and learner. They can dramatically increase your chances of success in school and in your job.

But words will not come automatically. They must be learned in a program of regular study. If you commit yourself to learning words, and you work actively and honestly with the chapters in this book, you will not only enrich your vocabulary—you will enrich your life as well.

➤ Final Check: Apartment Problems

Here is a final opportunity for you to strengthen your knowledge of the ten words. First read the following selection carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box at the top of the previous page. (Context clues will help you figure out which word goes in which blank.) Use each word once.

Although I'm ordinarily a(n) (1) _____ person, I'm tempted to move into a cave, far from other people—and landlords. Okay, I admit that I didn't use enough (2) _____ in choosing apartments to rent. But does every one of them have to be a (3) _____ to my health, mental stability, and checkbook?

When I moved into my first apartment, I discovered that the previous tenant had already subleased the place to a very large family—of cockroaches. Although I kept trying, I was never (4) _____ enough to swat any of them; they were able to dodge all my blows. In time, they became so bold that they paraded across the kitchen floor in the daytime in a(n) (5) _____ manner meant to impress upon me how useless it was to try to stop them. As soon as I could, I moved out.

My second apartment was a(n) (6) _____ nightmare—the filth was hard on the eyes and the nose. The place even assaulted the ears, as the walls were as thin as cardboard. My neighbors played music until all hours. Since I was too poor to buy a stereo, I became a dedicated listener. I even attended some of the neighbors' parties, in a(n) (7) _____ way—with my ear to the wall. When my landlord found out, he tried to charge me seven dollars a day for entertainment, and he wasn't being (8) _____—he meant it. I moved again, hoping to find a decent, (9) _____ landlord.

I rented my last apartment because it was supposedly located in an area of (10) _____ safety, considering the rent I can afford. A week after I moved in, I came home to find the locks broken and my belongings all over the floor. On the dresser was an angry note: "What gives you the right to live in such a nice neighborhood and not have anything worth stealing?"

Maybe I should have stayed with the cockroaches. At least they were honest.

First read the following selection carefully: Then fill in each blank with a word from the box at the top of the previous page. (Context clues will help you figure out which word goes in which blank.) Use each word once.

When my grandfather, Henry Altman, died, he left me a large sum of money. This was very surprising because he and my father had become estranged^o years before, after a quarrel, and the old man had never even seen me. I was sad that he had died before we could meet.

Soon after the news of my inheritance, a young man named Seth showed up to offer me his sympathy. Seth said he had been a friend of my grandfather's and that when the old man had become ill, he'd asked Seth to act as a (1) _____ between himself and the granddaughter he'd never met. "It's too late for Henry," said Seth, "but I think he'd want me to offer you my friendship. In his later years, he regretted his earlier (2) _____ to quarrel with his family."

Believing that Seth had been my grandfather's friend made me (3) _____ to like him, and it gave me (4) _____ to speak to someone who had known my grandfather. Still, I was puzzled because Seth wasn't able to give me much information. For example, when I asked some questions about Grandfather's second wife, Seth seemed to (5) _____, saying, "All I can say is that she was quite a woman." On the other hand, Seth appeared genuinely (6) _____ about my welfare, and his manners were (7) _____. I had never met anyone so perfectly polite.

I really didn't know what to make of him until, one day, I had a(n) (8) _____ meeting with an old school friend I hadn't seen in years. When I described Seth, my friend looked startled and said, "I know that guy. He's a phony, a complete (9) _____. He's after the money, and I bet he never even knew your grandfather."

When I checked, my friend's story was corroborated^o by reports of how Seth had tricked several other women out of their inheritances. The next time he called, I told him I knew about his (10) _____ behavior and would notify the police if he ever tried to contact me again.

► Final Check: Coco the Gorilla

Here is a final opportunity for you to strengthen your knowledge of the ten words. First read the following selection carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box at the top of the previous page. (Context clues will help you figure out which word goes in which blank.) Use each word once.

Illegal killings of gorillas are reducing their numbers far faster than would be expected from normal (1)_____. Here is the story of one gorilla family.

Carrying spears and knives, hunters entered an African game preserve, where it was unlawful to kill or capture wildlife. When they spotted a young gorilla, they closed in. Ten adult gorillas, members of a(n) (2)_____ family group, attempted to shield the infant. The men quickly killed all the adults. As if (3)_____ to the infant's screams, the men strapped his hands and feet to bamboo poles with wire, then carried him down the mountain on which he'd been born.

After several weeks, Dian Fossey, an American studying gorillas in the wild, learned that the young gorilla had been taken to park officials. She found him in a cage so small that he had no room to stand or turn. He was clearly frightened and nearly dead—thirsty, starving, and with infected wounds at his ankles and wrists. Fossey could hardly believe that the officials could (4)_____ such reprehensible^o cruelty.

When Fossey demanded an explanation from the park's chief official, he seemed (5)_____ about the animal. Finally, however, he admitted that he had made an illegal deal with a German zoo. In return for a new car, he had arranged for the gorilla's capture. Fossey was (6)_____ in insisting that the infant be released into her care. The official agreed on the condition that the infant be shipped to the zoo as soon as his health returned.

For several months, Fossey cared for the infant, now named Coco, who would cling to her for comfort. When he became more (7)_____, he began to romp and explore. In an effort to (8)_____ the agreement to send Coco to the zoo, Fossey (9)_____ (e)d government officials with letters, begging them to step in and arrange for him to be returned to the wild. In the end, though, the little gorilla was taken away from her—a(n) (10)_____ hardship for both of them. Gorillas can live into their 50s, but Coco died in the zoo at the age of 12.

► Final Check: Harriet Tubman

Here is a final opportunity for you to strengthen your knowledge of the ten words. First read the following selection carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box at the top of the previous page. (Context clues will help you figure out which word goes in which blank.) Use each word once.

In 1849 Harriet Tubman—then in her late twenties—fled from the (1) _____ brutality she had endured as a slave. Aware that a lone black woman would be a(n) (2) _____ figure among ordinary travelers, she traveled on foot and only at night, over hundreds of miles, to reach Pennsylvania. There, for the first time in her life, she was free, but her parents, brothers, and sisters remained behind in Maryland, still slaves. Harriet decided to go back for them—and, over the next ten years, for many more.

Harriet had several qualities that (3) _____ (e)d each other and facilitated° her mission. First, because she was knowledgeable and had good (4) _____, she could always sense when the time for an escape had arrived, and who could and couldn't be trusted. Second, she was (5) _____ about planning; she always worked out a plan to the last detail before she (6) _____ (e)d it. Third, she was flexible, capable of taking (7) _____ action if an unexpected problem arose. Time and again, when a disaster seemed imminent°, she was able to forestall° it. For instance, when she learned that slave-hunters had posted a description of a runaway man, she disguised him as a woman. When the slave-hunters turned up at a railroad station, she fooled them by having the runaways board a southbound train instead of a northbound one. Fourth, she was (8) _____ about her plans. She knew how important it was to be reticent°, since anyone might be a spy. Often, her instructions about where and when to meet were not actually stated, but were (9) _____ s in the songs and Bible stories she used, familiar to those waiting to escape. Fifth, she was physically strong, able to endure extended periods of deprivation°; she could go for a long time without food, shelter, or rest.

Harriet Tubman (10) _____ (e)d the unjust laws of an evil system, but she was never captured, and she never lost a single runaway. She led more slaves to freedom than any other individual—over three hundred—and her name is venerated° to this day.

► Final Check: Tony's Rehabilitation

Here is a final opportunity for you to strengthen your knowledge of the ten words. First read the following selection carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box at the top of the previous page. (Context clues will help you figure out which word goes in which blank.) Use each word once.

When he was 18, Tony was arrested for possessing a small amount of cocaine. Instead of panicking, he was nonchalant°. He didn't think of himself as having (1) _____ (e)d; the cocaine was just for fun, not some heinous° offense. On the way to the police station, he wasn't worried about being interrogated°. He figured he could claim that there were (2) _____ circumstances. He'd say he was just holding the stuff for a friend—maybe he'd even insinuate° that the "friend" was making him the victim of some (3) _____ scheme—and then he'd be released right away.

But things didn't work out according to Tony's scenario°. When he told his story to the police captain, the captain's response was hardly (4) _____: "Tell it to the judge, kid. I've heard it all before." Then, turning to a(n) (5) _____ officer, the captain said, "Book him." Tony still wasn't distraught°. He just thought, "Well, my father will extricate° me from this mess. First he'll (6) _____ me, of course, but after he's through yelling at me, he'll pay my bail. And he knows plenty of influential people who can (7) _____ the legal process so my case will be dismissed quickly." So Tony wasn't prepared for his father's (8) _____ anger, or for his parting words: "You got yourself into this. Now you'll take the consequences."

With no bail, Tony had to remain in jail until his hearing took place. He was terrified, especially by the other inmates. Some were belligerent°, trying to start fights; others used (9) _____ s, such as calling him "the millicnaire." His inference° was that they were threatening retribution° for his easy life. He got through his nine-day stay without being attacked, though, and the experience woke up his dormant° good sense. He realized that fooling around with drugs is insidious°—his involvement would only get worse unless he turned his life around.

Therefore, at his court hearing, Tony asked to be sent to a drug treatment center, and as a first-time offender, he got his wish. Today, six years later, Tony is still "clean." And he still wonders what would have become of him if he hadn't managed to (10) _____ himself in his family's eyes—and in his own.

► Final Check: Rumors

Here is a final opportunity for you to strengthen your knowledge of the ten words. First read the following selection carefully. Then fill in each blank with a word from the box at the top of the previous page. (Context clues will help you figure out which word goes in which blank.) Use each word once.

Did you hear that K-Mart sold sweaters with baby snakes inside? The story, of course, was untrue, but it was not easy to squelch^o.

How do such rumors get started? Sometimes they are (1) _____(e)d. In the case of the K-Mart rumor, the story was actually fraudulent^o; someone had deliberately made it up and disseminated^o it to discredit the store. Often, though, a rumor starts with an innocent misinterpretation. For instance, when a magazine article drew an analogy^o between a worm farm turning out bait and McDonald's turning out hamburgers, some readers (2) _____(e)d this to mean that McDonald's was grinding up worms in its burgers—and the preposterous^o story spread.

Rumors about individuals can start when someone makes a(n) (3) _____ statement or (4) _____s someone else, out of rancor^o or jealousy: "Josie got an A because she's dating Professor X," or "Al isn't in class today—he left town because he knew his arrest for being a Peeping Tom was (5) _____." Even an innuendo^o—something that's merely hinted at—can start a rumor: "Josie and Professor X are really quite discreet^o, aren't they?" No story is too gruesome to make the rounds, not even the (6) _____ tale of the girl whose beehive hairdo housed a black-widow spider, which eventually burrowed into her brain and killed her.

Once a rumor gets started, people who hear it are sometimes in a (7) _____. Even if there's nothing to corroborate^o the rumor, they may be afraid to ignore it. And so there is a proliferation^o of rumors, spreading fear, damaging reputations, and turning calm situations into (8) _____ ones. To stop or forestall^o rumors, one thing is probably of (9) _____ importance: before accepting any story, be sure the facts (10) _____ it.

B. Dictionary Use

It isn't always possible to figure out the meaning of a word from its context, and that's where a dictionary comes in. Following is some basic information to help you use a dictionary.

HOW TO FIND A WORD

A dictionary contains so many words that it can take a while to find the one you're looking for. But if you know how to use guide words, you can find a word rather quickly. Guide words are the two words at the top of each dictionary page. The first guide word tells what the first word is on the page. The second guide word tells what the last word is on that page. The other words on a page fall alphabetically between the two guide words. So when you look up a word, find the two guide words that alphabetically surround the word you're looking for.

- Which of the following pair of guide words would be on a page with the word skirmish?
skimp / skyscraper skyward / slave sixty / skimming

The answer to this question and the questions that follow are given on the next page.

HOW TO USE A DICTIONARY LISTING

A dictionary listing includes many pieces of information. For example, here is a typical listing. Note that it includes much more than just a definition.

driz•zle (driz'əl) v. -zled, -zling. To rain gently and steadily in fine drops.
— n. A very light rain. —driz'zly, adj.

Key parts of a dictionary entry are listed and explained below.

Syllables. Dots separate dictionary entry words into syllables. Note that drizzle has one dot, which breaks the word into two syllables.

- To practice seeing the syllable breakdown in a dictionary entry, write the number of syllables in each word below.

glam•our _____ mi•cro•wave _____ in•de•scrib•a•ble _____

Pronunciation guide. The information within parentheses after the entry word shows how to pronounce the entry word. This pronunciation guide includes two types of symbols: pronunciation symbols and accent marks.

Pronunciation symbols represent the consonant sounds and vowel sounds in a word. The consonant sounds are probably very familiar to you, but you may find it helpful to review some of the sounds of the vowels—a, e, i, o, and u. Every dictionary has a key explaining the sounds of its pronunciation symbols, including the long and short sounds of vowels.

Long vowels have the sound of their own names. For example, the a in pay and the o in no both have long vowel sounds. Long vowel sounds are shown by a straight line above the vowel.

In many dictionaries, the short vowels are shown by a curved line above the vowel. Thus the i in the first syllable of drizzle is a short i. The pronunciation chart on the inside front cover of this book indicates that the short i has the sound of i in sit. It also indicates that the short a has the sound of a in hat, that the short e has the sound of e in ten, and so on.

- Which of the words below have a short vowel sound? Which has a long vowel sound?

drug _____ night _____ sand _____

Another pronunciation symbol is the schwa (ə), which looks like an upside-down e. It stands for certain rapidly spoken, unaccented vowel sounds, such as the a in above, the e in item, the i in easily, the o in gallop, and the u in circus. More generally, it has an "uh" sound, like the "uh" a speaker makes when hesitating. Here are three words that include the schwa sound:

in•fant (in'fənt) bum•ble (bŭm'bəl) de•liv•er (dĭ-lĭv'ər)

- Which syllable in drizzle contains the schwa sound, the first or the second? _____

Accent marks are small black marks that tell you which syllable to emphasize, or stress, as you say a word. An accent mark follows driz in the pronunciation guide for drizzle, which tells you to stress the first syllable of drizzle. Syllables with no accent mark are not stressed. Some syllables are in between, and they are marked with a lighter accent mark.

- Which syllable has the stronger accent in sentimental? _____

sen•ti•men•tal (sĕn'tə-mĕn'tl)

Parts of speech. After the pronunciation key and before each set of definitions, the entry word's parts of speech are given. The parts of speech are abbreviated as follows:

noun—n. pronoun—pron. adjective—adj. adverb—adv. verb—v.

- The listing for drizzle shows that it can be two parts of speech. Write them below:

Definitions. Words often have more than one meaning. When they do, each meaning is usually numbered in the dictionary. You can tell which definition of a word fits a given sentence by the meaning of the sentence. For example, the word charge has several definitions, including these two: 1. To ask as a price. 2. To accuse or blame.

- Show with a check which definition (1 or 2) applies in each sentence below:

The store charged me less for the blouse because it was missing a button. 1 ____ 2 ____

My neighbor has been charged with shoplifting. 1 ____ 2 ____

Other information. After the definitions in a listing in a hardbound dictionary, you may get information about the origin of a word. Such information about origins, also known as etymology, is usually given in brackets. And you may sometimes be given one or more synonyms or antonyms for the entry word. Synonyms are words that are similar in meaning to the entry word; antonyms are words that are opposite in meaning.

WHICH DICTIONARIES TO OWN

You will find it useful to own two recent dictionaries: a small paperback dictionary to carry to class and a hardbound dictionary, which contains more information than a small paperback version. Among the good dictionaries strongly recommended are both the paperback and the hardcover editions of the following:

The American Heritage Dictionary
The Random House College Dictionary
Webster's New World Dictionary

ANSWERS TO THE DICTIONARY QUESTIONS

Guide words: skimp/skyscraper
Number of syllables: 2, 3, 5
Vowels: drug, sand (short); night (long)
Schwa: second syllable of drizzle

Accent: stronger accent on third syllable (men)
Parts of speech: noun and verb
Definitions: 1; 2

C. Topics for Discussion and Writing

Note: The first three items for each chapter are intended for discussion; the last three, for writing. Feel free, however, to either talk or write about any of the items.

Chapter 1 (Apartment Problems)

1. Athletes training for the Olympics must be dexterous. What are some of the other qualities—physical, emotional, and mental—necessary for them to achieve optimum results?
2. Facetious remarks often communicate serious ideas. An example is this comment by Mark Twain: "One of the most striking differences between a cat and a lie is that a cat has only nine lives." What is the serious meaning behind that remark? What might be the benefit of expressing that meaning in a joking manner?
3. Is it possible to be too scrupulous about following rules? Describe a situation in which someone, perhaps an authority figure, was more concerned with the rules than with the welfare of the people involved. Do you agree or disagree with that person's point of view? Explain your answer.
4. Write about a film that gave you an enjoyable vicarious experience. Name the film and describe at least one scene that illustrates your point. Begin with a main idea such as this: The movie _____ gave me a great vicarious experience of being a martial-arts expert.
5. Did you ever wish you had used more discretion? For example, you may have told someone you disapproved of a mutual friend's behavior and later regretted doing so. Write a paper about what you said and why you later regretted saying it. Conclude by telling what you learned from the experience.
6. Who is your most gregarious friend or relative? Who is the most shy? In writing, contrast these two people by describing the different ways they react to at least two or three common circumstances, such as being at parties and choosing jobs. Use examples where possible.

Chapter 2 (Hardly a Loser)

1. Do you prefer to work alone on a project, such as a report, or to collaborate with others? What are the benefits and drawbacks of each way of working?
2. What are some ways parents and teachers squelch children's confidence and creativity? What can they do to encourage children to feel positive about themselves and their abilities?
3. Throughout the ages, zealots have instigated both good and bad events. What public person or personal acquaintance do you consider a zealot? What do you think makes this person a zealot? Has his or her attitude had good effects—or bad ones?
4. We venerate people in a wide variety of fields, from athletics and entertainment to military and religious organizations. Write about a public figure you greatly respect, describing and illustrating the qualities and/or abilities that make you respect this person.

5. Think of a time you behaved in a way that you later regretted. Write about how you acted and how, in retrospect, you feel you should have behaved.
6. Has anyone ever scuffed at a goal or plan of yours? Write a paper explaining your goal or plan, the other person's comments, and how you reacted. Did you become despondent and not follow through? Or were you resilient and able to move forward with your idea despite the disapproval?

Chapter 3 (Grandfather at the Art Museum)

1. Some parents and teachers feel that young people fritter away their time on video games. Do you agree? Explain what you feel are the good or bad effects of video games on young players.
2. What school activity do you wish a community organization would subsidize? Would you like a program giving students internships in various workplaces? A girls' boxing program? Explain and defend the program you name.
3. Tell about a historical, political or religious dissident you admire. What did that person oppose? What did he or she achieve? Did the person suffer for his or her views and activities?
4. The ways we embellish spaces influence how they make us feel. For instance, a hospital waiting room may be designed to calm and comfort. Write a paper describing the decor of a room with which you're familiar and the effects you think it has.
5. Write about a time you lost out on something (for example, a job) because of lethargy—you simply didn't get up enough energy to follow through. Juxtapose that story with an account of a time you pursued and achieved something you really wanted. Use this main idea: Two very different experiences showed me that if I want something, I must take action.
6. Have you ever made an inadvertent comment that was so inane you felt embarrassed afterward? Write a paper describing the incident and how you reacted when you realized what you had said.

Chapter 4 (My Brother's Mental Illness)

1. Have you ever relinquished a social activity in order to do homework? Or have you ever ignored homework in favor of a social activity? Were you later glad you made the choice you did?
2. Young people may feel infallible and behave in impetuous and sometimes dangerous ways. What are some examples of such behavior? How might friends help these people avoid harmful, even tragic results?
3. Do you know anyone who has regressed to an earlier behavior? For example, you may know someone who began smoking again after having quit. Why do you think this person returned to the old behavior?
4. You have probably seen—or may have been—someone publicly berated at school or on the job. Write a paper about such an incident and your reaction to it.
5. Has an argument or a misunderstanding ever estranged you from a relative or an old friend? In a paper, explain the situation and what you think can be done, or has been done, to repair the relationship.
6. For many actors, winning an Academy Award is the zenith of their career. Euphoric, they give emotional speeches thanking others and describing their feelings. Think of an important goal you have achieved. Then write a speech—perhaps one humorously imitating an Academy Award speech—that you could have given upon reaching your goal.

Chapter 5 (A Get-Rich-Quick Scam)

1. Gossips often disseminate a story without bothering to corroborate it with solid evidence. Has such a rumor ever been spread about you or someone you know or have heard of? Describe the rumor, and tell how it affected the person it concerned.
2. In what ways might advertising and peer pressure contribute to the illicit use of drugs (including alcohol and cigarettes) by children and teenagers? Do you think there's been a proliferation of such use lately—or a decline? What makes you think so?
3. Sometimes just one cruel word or action can cause irrevocable damage to a person. Has this ever happened to you or someone you know? Describe the incident and its effect.
4. When you were a child, did you dream about what you wanted to be when you grew up? Are these dreams dormant, or are they active? Or have you totally changed your mind about them? Write a paper describing your old dreams and how you feel about them now.
5. Have you and an old friend taken paths that diverged? In a paper, introduce your friend, and explain how your lives have gone in different directions. Here's a sample main idea for this assignment: Because of different interests and goals, my best friend in elementary school and I have grown apart.
6. Write a description—serious or humorous—of a way to hoist a piano, a person, a motorcycle or bike, a bag of groceries, or anything else from street level to a second-floor window.

Chapter 7 (A Phony Friend)

1. Some guests on television real-life talk shows become very emotional, even violent. Do you find such behavior reprehensible—or acceptable? In your opinion, are these demonstrations genuine, or are they mostly a sham and thus not to be taken seriously?
2. Politicians may equivocate when answering questions about controversial issues. Why do you think they do this? Can you think of any examples of such deliberate vagueness?
3. When there's a conflict between nations or between a union and a company, a liaison is generally called upon to help. Why do you think a go-between is used so often? Why don't the conflicting parties face each other without a mediator?
4. Sometimes when we're sad, a pet can give us solace when no one else can. Write a paper on the qualities that enable pets to offer such comfort, using examples you know of.
5. Do you know someone whose appearance or manners seem faultless? Do you consider a certain car or garden to be perfect? Write a paper in which you try to persuade your reader that someone or something is impeccable. Include colorful, convincing details in your description.
6. Write about someone who has a propensity to get into trouble. Include one or more detailed examples of his or her actions and the trouble that resulted. Also, explain why you think this person is predisposed to such situations. Use a main idea such as this: My brother's habit of acting without thinking often gets him in trouble.

Chapter 8 (Coco the Gorilla)

1. High-school and college coaches always lose players through attrition. What are some ways this happens? How then can a coach create a cohesive group of players and mold them into a winning team?
2. Have you ever felt inundated with school assignments? Describe study methods you have worked out to help you survive such difficult times. For instance, do you become super-organized? Do you read when you're on a bus?
3. Some students protest in a vociferous manner when required to dissect an animal. Do you think these students should be excused from the activity without being punished? Why or why not?
4. When parents divorce, the results can be grievous for their children. Some parents explain to their children why they've divorced, while others are reticent to do so, feeling they are protecting the children. Write a paper explaining the method you think is more helpful to a child and why.
5. We all want to be robust, yet we are sometimes oblivious to our own health practices. Think about your own diet and exercise patterns. Then write about two or three ways in which you can improve your chances for remaining healthy and strong.
6. Sometimes, even though we try to circumvent an unpleasant situation, we find we have no choice except to become involved. Has this ever happened to you or someone you know? In a paper, describe such a circumstance and what eventually happened.

Chapter 9 (Our Annual Garage Sale)

1. Television news is replete with images of violence and disaster. If you were in charge of news programming, would you balance negative news with reports meant to bolster viewers' spirits? If so, explain your reasoning and how might you achieve that balance. If not, explain why.
2. Some T-shirts or bumper stickers display terse statements that are serious or humorous. What are your favorites? Is there one that particularly expresses a tenet by which you live?
3. Do you sometimes go through long periods of being quite sedentary? How can people include exercise in their study or work routines?
4. Some people collect items they hope won't depreciate, such as stamps. Others collect objects with little financial value, such as matchbooks. Do (or did) you or someone you know collect anything? Write a paper about the collection. How did it start? Which are its most prized items? Is it displayed, or has it been relegated to the basement?
5. Write a letter to a friend who has given only nebulous thought to a career and could end up making an indiscriminate career choice. Explain a way to go about choosing a satisfying occupation. Use some real or imagined examples to make your points clearer and more persuasive.
6. Imagine you are preparing a guide for camp counselors. One section of the guide must tell what to do in rainy weather, when children are stuck inside a room for hours. Write about three or more activities the counselor can lead to occupy the children's inquisitive minds and keep them from becoming bored and cranky.

Chapter 10 (A Debate on School Uniforms)

1. Suppose you were studying on a weeknight and your concentration was challenged by a raucous party next door. How would you cope? Under what circumstances might you feel your best recourse was to call the police?
2. While large organizations need rules, some become overly bureaucratic. Do you feel some regulations at your school interfere with the school's effectiveness? For instance, do you think registration is more complicated than necessary or that requirements are too inflexible?
3. Sometimes an organization or social group ostracizes certain people or even prevents them from becoming members in the first place. Do you think this kind of behavior is ever justified? Why or why not?
4. Some people have a tenacious desire to work things out on their own. How about you? Do you like close supervision and feedback when working on a project, or do you prefer autonomy? Write about your preference, and illustrate your points with detailed examples.
5. Imagine that in a future election, the people's mandate is to raise the voting age from 18 to 21. Write a paper opposing or supporting this decision. Give at least two reasons for your point of view.
6. What elements should a perfect society have? Write either a serious or humorous paper describing your idea of utopia. Tell what it would include and exclude, and explain your reasoning.

Chapter 11 (My Large Family)

1. On holidays, does your family prepare superfluous amounts of food in case uninvited guests show up? Describe how you or relatives overprepare (or underprepare) for such a contingency.
2. What are some characteristics and behaviors of egocentric people? In what ways might self-centeredness be a liability or an advantage?
3. When a defendant in a criminal trial has been exonerated of all charges, he or she is set free. What difficulties do you think this person might face in attempting to be reinstated into normal life?
4. While Native Americans are indigenous to North America, most Americans have roots in other countries. Write a paper on your family's roots and movements from place to place. Trace your family as far back as you can.
5. A friendship between people who appear completely different from each other may seem incongruous. Do you know of such a friendship? Write a paper explaining the relationship and the qualities that seem contradictory. Tell what you think draws the friends to each other.
6. Have you ever had to behave in a clandestine manner to keep a surprise secret? Write about the surprise and what you had to do to hide it. Here's a sample main idea for this assignment:
Because of a surprise party, I had to become a creative liar.

Chapter 13 (Ann's Love of Animals)

1. Some people advocate laws restricting smoking or drinking in public. Others have an antipathy toward rules restricting personal habits. Which group are you in, and why?
2. Have you ever felt emancipated when you finally finished doing something you utterly disliked? Explain what the circumstances were and how you handled them. Did you do something to celebrate your freedom?
3. Some governments have all-inclusive jurisdiction over the rights and behavior of their citizens. Tell what you think life must be like living under a highly restrictive government. How might you react to such a life?
4. Have you ever gotten lost in a forest or witnessed a violent crime? Write about the most precarious situation you've ever been in. Explain the circumstances, how you felt and reacted, and what eventually happened. Use vivid details to bring the experience to life for readers.
5. Some students become anxious when a new school term is imminent. Has this happened to you? After the term started, did you find that most of your fears were preposterous? Write a paper about your fears before and after school started.
6. Household members must learn to live with each other's idiosyncrasies. Write a paper on the peculiarities of the people you live with and how you all deal with them. You might use a main idea much like this one: My parents, my sister, and I have several idiosyncrasies we've learned to live with and even enjoy.

Chapter 14 (A Costume Party)

1. At the Academy Awards, some actresses always dress in a provocative manner. Why do you think they are so showy in their dress?
2. Mary Shelley's novel Frankenstein, the story of a scientist and his grotesque creation, has been made into a film several times. Why do you think this story continues to mesmerize people?
3. One company makes perfect facsimiles of famous paintings, down to the brushstrokes. The copies are sold for much less than the originals. Similarly, laboratory-produced gems are much cheaper than those found in nature. Why do you think people value the originals more than the less expensive copies?
4. Do you study best in a quiet, austere environment or a noisy, cluttered space—or something in between? Write a paper on the study setting you prefer. Describe the setting in detail, and tell why you feel it suits you.
5. Some students give only perfunctory attention to what happens in class. Write a letter to a teacher telling two or three ways class can be made more interesting for such students.
6. Write the first page or two of a short story, realistic or otherwise, about a notorious criminal who tries to undergo a metamorphosis in order to escape being recognized and caught by crime fighters.

Chapter 15 (The Missing Painting)

1. Group study can be helpful, but conversations may spring up that aren't germane to the study material. Do you prefer to study with friends or by yourself? Or does it depend on the circumstances? Discuss the pros and cons of both study methods, and give reasons for your preferences.
2. Even when people feel contrite about something they did, their apology may sound more like an excuse than regret. Think of examples. Why do you think it is difficult for some people to apologize?
3. To avoid being a verbose writer, watch for and eliminate unnecessary words. For practice, edit the following statements so that each is only four words: "Hattie was elected to the position of secretary." "At this point in time, I have need of a nap." "I really prefer the dark kind of chocolate." Why might connoisseurs of writing recommend this technique?
4. Were you ever so concerned about personal matters that you paid attention only superficially to your studies? Were you distraught when your limited studying led to low grades? Write about what prevented you from doing well in school and how things turned out.
5. Suppose you have a friend who refuses to recognize a problem with drugs or alcohol. Write a lucid letter that might get your friend to admit his or her plight and do something to overcome it.
6. Sometimes when nothing seems to go right, we may feel as though there's a conspiracy against us. Has this ever happened to you? Write about your experience and how it turned out.

Chapter 16 (An Ohio Girl in New York)

1. Tabloid writers and gossip shows are adept at appealing to people's interest in sordid events. Why do you think people are so attracted to the information these newspapers and shows offer?
2. Has a stint at a part-time or full-time job ever turned into a horrible experience for you? What were the circumstances? Did you quit the job or stick with it?
3. Some schools have a code that standardizes student dress. What reasons might they have for this requirement? How do you feel about dress codes, and why?
4. Some teachers have stringent standards, while others are easier to satisfy. Write a paper contrasting strict and lenient teachers. Explain, for instance, the differences in their assignments and grading methods. Also tell which type of teacher you prefer and why. You might use the following main idea: In my experience, a _____ teacher is generally preferable to a _____ one.
5. Write a paper explaining which habit you would choose to eradicate if you could, and why. Go on to name two or three realistic methods you could use to get rid of, or at least weaken, that habit.
6. Imagine you are an entrepreneur opening a restaurant chain. Write a description of your business. Include the restaurant's name, theme, decor, and a general description of what the menu would encompass.

Chapter 17 (How Neat Is Neat Enough?)

1. When you were a child, did your parents exhort you to eat foods you found repugnant? What were these foods, and what did you do, if anything, to avoid eating them? How do you feel about these foods today?
2. People's foibles, though innocuous, can sometimes annoy others. What foibles do your roommates or family members have that sometimes irritate you? Which of your foibles annoy others?
3. Are you meticulous about keeping your room and belongings neat, or are you more casual with your environment? Describe what your fellow classmates would see if they were to enter your room right now.
4. Do you know, or know of, someone who is truly magnanimous? In a paper, describe that person and tell what he or she has done to deserve your opinion.
5. Sometimes people have an argument that escalates into ongoing recriminations and rancor that can last for years. Write a paper describing such a conflict and explaining what you think might be done to ease it.
6. Imagine a fictitious person who is very flamboyant. Write a paper describing this person's showy appearance and behavior. Also tell what this flamboyance might indicate about his or her nature.

Chapter 19 (Halloween Troubles)

1. What do you get a yen for that you know isn't good for you? Smoking? Junk food? Under what circumstances do you feel this craving? Describe any methods you use for overcoming the desire.
2. Advertisers often attempt to make noxious products like cigarettes and alcohol attractive to young people. What scenarios have you seen in ads that would particularly appeal to young viewers? Do you think these ads are successful? Why or why not?
3. What abilities or traits do you think are integral to success in any field? Name these qualities and tell why you think they are so important. Who in private or public life do you think possesses these qualities?
4. Experience influences the connotations words have for us: For a pet lover, the word dog will have a positive meaning; for someone bitten by a dog, it may have negative overtones. Write a paper explaining the connotation one of the following words has for you: cat, automobile, boss, chocolate, rain, spider. Here's a sample main idea for this assignment: The word "rain" has pleasant connotations for me. Support your main idea with at least two personal experiences.
5. What do you feel is a big problem at your school? In a letter to a school administrator, write a proposal to create a coalition to deal with the problem. Explain who would make up the coalition, and how it might go about solving the problem.
6. Imagine a horror movie in which one or more diabolic creatures live in a dilapidated house into which someone has just moved. Write a review of that film, including colorful descriptions. Or, if you prefer, write a one- or two-page summary of the story.

Chapter 20 (Thomas Dooley)

1. When you were a child, did a special treat work as a panacea to cure emotional upsets? Is there a certain activity today—listening to music or talking to someone special—that you can count on to lift your blue moods?
2. Being objective is imperative for a judge and a jury, but it is also important in other areas of life. What are some situations when it's important for people to be objective? For instance, is objectivity important in hiring an employee? In choosing friends?
3. We are surrounded by utilitarian things: telephone wires, pencils, television sets, and so on. Name some objects that are not utilitarian and are kept solely for aesthetic reasons. Name some utilitarian things we may appreciate for their looks as well as for their usefulness.
4. No matter how much we like television, many of us deplore something about it. We may feel that it promotes poor values or that local news shows care more about ratings than news. Write a paper on what you most disapprove of about TV. Include detailed examples.
5. Did someone who tried to help you with a problem actually exacerbate the situation? Write about what happened and how you eventually handled your problem.
6. Have you ever worn a cast? How badly did your muscles atrophy while in the cast? Was physical therapy used to mitigate the muscle weakness? Write a paper about your experience. Tell why you needed to wear the cast and what problems or inconveniences you experienced while wearing it and after removing it.

Chapter 21 (Twelve Grown Men in a Bug)

1. When stressful situations leave you exhausted, do you wish you could get away for a while? If you could take an all-expenses-paid two-week vacation, where would you go and what would you do to rejuvenate yourself?
2. Some people feel exhilaration when running five miles, whereas others feel it from beating a difficult computer game. What activity fills you with excitement? Explain its appeal to you.
3. What is the worst mess you've ever gotten yourself into? Have you ever made two appointments or dates for the same time and day, or agreed to do something and later wished you hadn't? Describe the situation, and explain how you managed to extricate yourself.
4. Have you ever been criticized by someone who espoused what you consider an old-fashioned sense of decorum? For instance, has a relative insisted that nose piercing is rude or that it's wrong for females to call males for a date? Write a paper about your experience. Describe the situation, the other person's opinion, and your own point of view and reaction.
5. Did you ever want something so much that you paid what seemed like an exorbitant price for it? After the purchase, did you still feel it was worth what you paid? Do you or does someone you gave the item to still own it? Write about your experience. Be sure to describe what you bought in a way that shows your reader why you were willing to pay so much for it.
6. Imagine you write an advice column. A fifth grader who has moved to a new school district asks for your ideas on how to facilitate his or her adjustment to the new school. For your column, write a letter to that person.

Chapter 22 (Adjusting to a Group Home)

1. What are your favorite ways of dissipating tensions? Going for a walk? Jogging? Meditating? Why do your methods work so well for you?
2. Have you ever had a day when you felt completely indolent? Describe how you would ideally spend such a day.
3. Many people claim that prejudice is not inherent to our nature, but is taught. Do you agree? If so, who or what do you think are the primary teachers of racism? Where have you found denunciations of racism?
4. Write a paper explaining how easy or difficult it has been for you to assimilate into new situations, such as a new school or a new neighborhood. Tell if some situations are easier for you than others and if such adjustments have gotten easier over time.
5. Write a paper about a belligerent person you've known. Tell about one or more situations in which the person's aggressiveness was a key element. You might begin with a main idea like this: My neighbor Mr. X seems to be constantly harassing my family and other neighbors.
6. Was a unilateral decision that involved you but excluded your input ever made by family or friends? Write about the situation, describing what happened and how you felt about not having a say in the decision.

Chapter 23 (A Different Kind of Doctor)

1. Some patients who receive placebo remedies report good results, even cures. What do you think could account for these results?
2. Throughout history, the power of persuasion emanated from some people so strongly that they were able to influence masses of people. Name some of those people. Did any use their abilities for subversive purposes? Explain.
3. In focusing on the whole person, what might a holistic physician do that other doctors often do not do? For instance, what life changes might they suggest?
4. Are you a staunch fan of a particular sports team? Write a paper explaining what you like about that team. Give examples for all your claims.
5. Were you ever wrongly accused of doing something? If so, were you able to vindicate yourself? Write a paper explaining the accusation and its effects upon you. Describe in detail the way you were—or were not—cleared of blame. Feel free to use this main idea: I learned the hard way how important it is to be careful in making accusations.
6. Are you good at tennis? An expert baker? Write a paper on an activity in which you feel especially proficient. Describe the skill, and tell how you came to acquire it and what place it takes in your life now. Conclude by explaining whether you intend to use the skill in a career or as a hobby.

Chapter 25 (My Devilish Older Sister)

1. Do you so dislike certain activities, such as exercise or doing laundry, that you find ways to forestall doing them? Tell which activities you dislike, why you dislike them so much, and what delaying actions you take.
2. Did your parents ever ask you questions like "Where are you going?" and "Who else will be there?" How do young people react to being interrogated in this fashion? Are those reactions justified? Why or why not?
3. Do wonderful odors permeate your home at certain times of the year, such as particular holidays or seasons? Identify the aromas and the special times with which you associate them.
4. Has anything happened to you at a particularly opportune time? For instance, did you get a job offer just when you needed more money? Did you meet someone special right after breaking up with someone else? Write a paper describing one such time in your life, making clear just why the timing of the event was so good. Alternatively, write about an inopportune, or ill-timed, event in your life.
5. Are you good friends with someone despite disparities in your opinions, ages, and/or backgrounds? Write about your relationship, explaining the differences between you and how you both handle them so that your friendship is maintained. Has anyone insinuated that your friendship is inappropriate? If so, also tell how you deal with the objection.
6. Have you ever wished to be omnipotent? Write a paper describing what you would do and why if you were all-powerful for a day. Include any retributions you would like to give out.

Chapter 26 (Harriet Tubman)

1. Imagine you are asked right now to give an impromptu speech defending this point: Sports help society. Give one example, fact, or personal experience you could use to support that point.
2. When you get dressed in the morning, are you fastidious about choosing accessories to complement your outfit? Or are you more casual about your day's attire? Picture this outfit: black shirt, black pants, and black shoes. Name one piece of clothing or jewelry for a male or a female that you feel would complement that outfit.
3. Do you trust your instincts? Tell about a time when you did not follow your intuition and wished that you had, or a time you did follow your instincts and you were, or were not, glad.
4. On New Year's Day, many people decide to begin a self-improvement program. The inference is that if they make a New Year's resolution, they will stick with the plan, yet it is often soon forgotten. Have you ever made a resolution (at any time of the year) and actually followed through? Write a paper explaining the resolution and how you implemented it. Or write about a resolution you might make in the future and the ways you could carry it out.
5. Have you ever asked a friend or family member to be discreet about some information and then discovered it was told to others? Write a paper about your experience and how you handled it.
6. Write the first page or two of a novel about an evil character who flouts society's rules. Describe the character and a heinous plan he or she is working on.

Chapter 27 (Tony's Rehabilitation)

1. Judges sometimes require people who have transgressed but are not violent to redeem themselves by doing community work. Do you think community work is a fair punishment? What are the advantages and disadvantages of such a penalty?
2. Some people believe that certain astrological signs are auspicious and plan their days accordingly. Do you believe in astrology? Give your opinion and the reasons you feel as you do.
3. What do you do to expedite unpleasant chores such as housecleaning or yard work? Explain your methods and why they are helpful to you.
4. Have extenuating circumstances ever caused you to miss an important test or appointment? Write a paper about the experience. Describe the circumstances, the reaction to your missing the test or appointment, and what happened in the end.
5. Did you ever harshly rebuke someone and later regret it and try to remedy the situation? Write a paper about the experience. Or write about a time you were at the receiving end of vehement criticism.
6. What kind of boss would you want to be? Imagine that you are a boss and have asked the workers subordinate to you to evaluate your performance anonymously. Write an evaluation you would like to see.

Chapter 28 (Rumors)

1. What do you think are the reasons macabre movies are so popular? Give some examples. What do you think of such movies, and how do you respond to them?
2. Children sometimes fabricate stories, especially when they think they've done something that might get them into trouble. How do you think parents should handle this behavior?
3. Some people are frightened by turbulent storms, while others enjoy a lot of lightning and thunder. What is your reaction to violent weather? If you have a pet, how does it react to thunderstorms?
4. Have you ever been in a quandary because you wanted to do something your family disapproved of? For example, you might have wanted to buy a car, but your parents wanted you to use the money for college. Write a paper explaining the predicament and the decision you made.
5. Has anyone ever derided or criticized something that was of paramount importance to you, such as your choice of friends, jobs, or extracurricular activities? Write about the experience, including how you reacted to the ridicule or criticism.
6. Write a paper in which you validate one of the following italicized statements with at least two persuasive pieces of evidence—facts, examples, or reasons from your personal experience and common sense. About everything bad there is something good. School uniforms are a good (or a bad) idea. Music classes benefit students.
