Date: _____

The Unit 6 Review Skill asks you to find examples in paragraphs 4 and 5 of Reading 2.

Let's take a look at Reading 1 "Solving a Crime with Science: A True Story." Read the paragraphs below. Then answer the questions that follow to practice identifying examples.

The detective was puzzled. At other sites, a thief opened nearly every drawer in the house searching for valuables. To the contrary, this thief seemed to know exactly where to find valuables. He also knew how to unlock the front door and open the safe. It seemed logical that the thief knew the house. The detective asked Eduard and Susan many questions. He asked about their servant. He wanted to know the specific time they had returned home. Could Eduard and Susan be lying? What motive would they have for faking a theft? Could the servant be guilty?

Meanwhile, the CSIs were upstairs checking the bedroom for fingerprints and searching for evidence—signs that might help solve the crime. They found a button by the open window, and they detected a tiny red thread near the safe. They put these pieces of evidence into envelopes and taped them shut. Then they searched the garden.
